A Republican Southern State.

If the present dominant party in Tennessee should continue to retain possession of the State, the prospect seems to be fair for making it a more prosperous and flourishing commonwealth than any in the South. Statistics show that while the negro population has decreased in most parts of the south during and since the war, it has increased in Tennessee, because here it is protected in all its rights.—Negro emigration thither from Kentucky, North Carolina and the cotton States is providing an ample supply of cheap labor, whereby industrial enterprises thrive, and the agricultural interests are recuperating from the disastrous results of civil war.

Tennessee has generally been found to be liberal in politics, and her public men have given many proofs of their regard for free principles. The loyal population has been strengthened by immigration from other States, and with the aid of the negro votes will be able to maintain possession of power. The example set by the Republicans of Missouri has been emulated by those of Tennessee, and both States are now fine fields for emigration and the investment of capital in business enterprises. The contrast presented by these two States with Kentucky is not much to the credit of the latter.—The Republicans of Tennessee have been bold, open and resolute from the time when the State government was reorganized. Those of Kentucky, on the other hand, suffered themselves to be misled and misrepresented by allying their forces with the thing misnamed a conservative Union party.

The efforts of the Johnsonites to overcome the Republicans in Tennessee, and give the State to the Democrats and rebels, have been constant, and, backed by the power of the national government, they would have succeeded had the Tennessee Republicans been less determined. It is of the utmost consequence, in relieving the south of the evils engendered by slavery, that we should strengthen the hold of the Republicans upon Tennessee, which, right in the heart of the south, must largely influence the surrounding country. It is not merely the political weight that added to our cause that we set value upon. The Republican party carries with it tendencies that have made every State prosperous where it holds sway. In the short time that it has held possession of Missouri it has done a vast amount of good.

For these reasons we should be pleased to see a more general disposition to encourage emigration to Tennessee. The resources of the State are equal to those of any of the new States that are receiving such streams of emigration. The negroes will, of course, go there fast enough; but white emigrants from the north are needed to strengthen the noble Republicans who have thus far held the State.—North American.

Purity of Character.

Over the beauty of the plum and apricot there grows a bloom and beauty more exquisite than the first fruit itself—a soft delicate flush that overspreads the cheek. Now, if you strike your hand over that it is at once gone forever, for it never grows but once.—The flower that hangs in the morning impearled with dew—arrayed as no queenly woman ever was arrayed with jewels—once shake it, so that the beads roll off, and you may sprinkle water over it as you please, but it can never be made again what it was when the dew fell silently upon it from heaven. On a frosty morning you may see the panes of glass covered with landscapes, mountains, lakes and trees blended in beautiful fantastic pictures. Now lay your hand on the glass, and by the scratch of the finger or warmth of the palm, all the delicate tracery will be obliterated. So there is in youth a beauty and purity of character which when once touched and defiled can never be restored—a fringe more delicate than frost work, which, when torn and broken, will never be re embroidered. A man who has spotted and soiled his garments in youth, though he may seek to make them white again, can never wholly do it, even were he to wash them with his tears. When a young man leaves his father's house with the blessing of his mother's kiss still wet upon his forehead, if he once loses that purity of character it is a loss that he can never make whole again. Such is the consequence of crime. Its effects cannot be eradicated—it can only be forgiven.

Stanton on the Supreme Court.

The Secretary of War, in evidence before one of the Congressional committees, expressed his views upon the decision of the Supreme Court in the Indiana conspiracy case as follows:—I believe that Milligan was properly convicted. I am of the opinion that a true exposition of the law of this country, and of every other civilized country of the globe justifies me in saying that trials' convictions and sentences by millitary triburals are perfectly legal. I do not think the decision in the Milligan case is justified by any principles of law recognized by any civil Government on earth. It is wholly inconsistent with the protection of persons in millitary service, or with the preservation of peace and safety in any State in insurrection.

A Compromise Gone Under.

The much talked of compromise has made its appearance, and is an unmistakable abortion. It makes a provision in regard to suffrage that would exclude all colored citizens unable to read and write, or not owning two hundred and fifty dollars' worth of property, while it allows every rebel to retain his vote without regard to any such qualification. There was a time when even this concession would have been regarded with favor as a step forward. Just now it will be scouted by every Republican. There cannot be a doubt that it originated with President Johnson himself, and has for its object not the protection of the colored men of the South, but the admission of enough rebel Senators to prevent any more of his vetoes being overriden.

The Richmond Enquirer, in publishing the compromise, objects to it, unless the Republicans receive it as a finality. The objection is needless.—The Republicans cannot support the measure on any terms, and have no confidence in the sincerity of the men who propose it. We have not taken so much trouble to yield at last to so poor and weak a thing as this. The objections to negro voting that for a time existed in the mind of northern Republicans have long since vanished, and we are all satisfied that the negroes could vote quite as intelligently and a great deal more patriotically than any rebel in the south.

If the conquered States would rather go un-represented than to do justice to the freedmen, let them have a good dose of the medicine. They felt sure of getting into Congress right off by the aid of the President and the Democrats, and they are not there yet, nor likely to be for two years to come unless they change their course. As to the willingness assumed by the south to remain unrepresented, we, who know what the ruling class at the south is and has always been, can afford to laugh at the vain pretence. These men have got to learn the lesson of submission to lawful authority, of which at present they seem ignorant. Having by the treachery of Andrew Johnson sneaked back into a controlling influence at Washington, everywhere except in Congress they imagine that the overwhelming popular majority will quietly allow them to dominate the republic again by fraud, violence and trickery, as of old. But that game is up. —North American.

Gold by the Hundred Weight.

A telegram from Placerville says that gold worth $50,000 was taken from the Woodside mine near Georgetown, and that yesterday (Nov. 12) the miners were "blocking out nearly a pure solid mass of gold, nearly three feet in length." If such a statement had come from a stranger, we should have received it with incredulity, but we can vouch for the sincerity and intelligence of the author of the message. The finding of gold in such large masses in a lode is without parallel in the history of mining. The metals in veins of auriferous quartz are usually in small particles, and pieces are very seldom obtained weighing more than a few ounces. Probably the largest piece of gold heretofore taken from any lode in this State did not weigh more than a pound. But our telegram mentions one lump, obtained in the Woodside mines, weighing 100 pounds, and it is inferred that the piece three feet long will weigh very much more.

One of Butler's Jokes.

A mean rich man mentioned in a law case that he had given a poor family some money in charity, but on cross examination said that he had taken a receipt. The confession drew from Gen. Butler, one of the counsel, the following sally, in his address to the jury: "Gentlemen, the Christian grace of charity has always won my affections. When a child at my mother's knee, I learned from the great Apostle to the Gentiles, that 'charity suffereth long and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own.' By the same high authority my young mind was taught that 'charity beareth all things, believeth all things, endureth all things, hopeth all things.' But, gentlemen of the jury, this is the first time in all my life that I have known charity to take a receipt."

THE editor of the Savannah, Ga., Republican, has been convicted of libel, and sentenced to one year's imprisonment in the county jail. His offense was in publishing the fact that a South Carolina rebel postmaster was a defaulter to the United States Government in the amount of one hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars. He is a radical and publishes a radical paper. The trial took place before a rebel judge and a rebel jury. It is in return for such justice as this that these people ask for generosity from the North.

THE things which we remembered are few and unimportant, compared with those which are forgotten.

WE cannot behold the proportions of the great ship of the universe, for we are shut up in the hold.

IN Jackson county, Iowa, one night not long since, three brothers married three sisters.

An Innocent Man Hung.

In a recent trial of a murder case at Atlanta, Ga., in which the evidence was circumstantial, one of the counsel for the defence told the following story of a trial which took place in the same court thirty years ago:—There then lived on the Bayou road a man about twenty-five or thirty years old. He was not an educated nor a wealthy man, but he was honest and had a good heart. Having had a limb broken, he was infirm in health. He made his livelihood by going to the bayou St. John every evening, and catching fish to sell in market the next morning. One moonlight evening, while sitting on the bank of the bayou, fishing, as usual, he saw a lady dressed in white, in company with a gentleman, walking on the road beside the bayou. They were quarreling as they passed him, and his attention was attracted by hearing them quarrel. After they passed he resumed his fishing, and waited until he caught his usual supply. He then started home with his basket. As he reached the place known as the Caquet, he heard a loud cry, and soon after a feeble cry. Advancing in the direction of the sound, he saw a woman in a white gown lying on the pavement, and coming to the woman, he perceived that a dagger had been stabbed into her bosom. Thinking to relieve her, he took the dagger by the handle and drew it out. As he did so a watchman grasped him. The woman was killed. The poor fisherman was tried for the murder. The case made out clearly against him. He had been detected in the very act, bending over the body of the deceased with the weapon in his hand. He was convicted, and hung at Congo square. About six months after a trial was going on in Judge Canonge's court. A citizen, called as a juror, said he did not wish to be on the jury, and wished to speak a few words to the Judge. The Judge allowed him a private conversation. Supposing that he might have scruples about capital punishment, the Judge asked him if that was the reason he objected to being on the jury. "No," he answered, "that is not the reason. I saw the fisherman hung for the murder of my wife. He did not do it. I did it myself from jealousy." The Judge sat petrified. The man made for the door, escaped, and has never been heard of since.

Employment in Kansas.

There seems to be a good opening for the unemployed in Western Missouri and Kansas. The Kansas City (Mo.) Journal of Commerce says: Kansas City will need, by the first of April, 5,000 men, laborers and mechanics.—During the past year we have erected over 600 buildings, for which we have had to pay large prices, because of the high price of labor. Bricklayers six and seven dollars per day, and other trades in proportion. This city will next season build three times as much as it did last. We are building a railroad bridge across the Missouri, which will cost over half a million of dollars; we shall also build the largest depot in the West. The Fort Scott Railroad will need both laborers and mechanics. Unless at least 5,000 more laborers and mechanics come here by spring, the work will have to be delayed, and private enterprise must suffer. We have at this time over one hundred houses which had to be stopped last fall for want of mechanics. Buildings would have been started last fall, but on account of the lack of mechanics were not begun.

No Housekeeper.

"Mrs. Jones is a right nice woman, good-hearted and all that, but, I'm sorry to say, she is no housekeeper."

"Don't know how to cook, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes, she knows how to cook; I never sat down to better bread and cake and coffee and relishes, than I've seen on her table, and she does her own work, too."

"What is the trouble, then?"

"Why, she isn't neat, don't keep things in order like a woman should. Don't comb her hair, or sweep her room, or dust her things."

"Her hair always looks well enough, and I believe she sweeps and dusts every morning, but then she lets the children have their own way too much."

"Does she? I really was not aware——"

"I mean," said Mrs. Smith, "they have their baby rags and dolls, and blocks, and other playthings over the floor, and they 'keep house' in the corners of the room, and I don't know what all; now, I should soon go distracted with all that nonsense."

"So you don't allow your children such privileges, do you?"

"I rather think not, they have to do better than that when I'm about. What's the use of having a house in such confusion and every thing at sixes and sevens?"

"Well, now, Mrs. Smith, I want to know how you manage your little ones. Come tell me your rules?"

"I don't know as I have any particular rules, only they shall not make a noise round me, nor litter up the floor with their gimcracks."

"You let them have their playthings, don't you?"

"No, indeed, I looked them all up long ago, to keep them from being broken. I tell you there's no use in humoring young ones so much; I must keep things tidy in my house, and the dear knows, I have a time of it anyhow, with Mr. Smith not cleaning his feet on the mat, and the children most always quarreling about something or other."

"Do you think Mrs. Jones has as hard a time as you have, Mrs. Smith?"

"No, I don't believe she worries about anything. Seems to me, she don't care how things go."

"Yes, she cares a great deal, and knows exactly how to make her children happy at home, and her husband is always welcomed with a smile, mat or no mat. When her children come here to see mine, they are neither noisy nor quarrelsome, but gentle, playful, healthy and happy."

"And my children?"

"Well, they are somewhat different. You see they are kept so tightly at home that they are pretty boisterous in other houses."

"Why don't you send them home, then?"

"Because they will not go; they openly declare that 'Ma' is cross and won't let them play, and they don't like home a bit."

"Do my children thus speak of their mother," said Mrs. Smith, as she rose and drew her shawl around her and lowered her veil to hide the coming tears.

"They often do it, my dear friend, but take courage, there is time yet to draw their hearts to you. Have patience with them, give them their toys and let them enjoy them in their own home. Your house is always exquisitely neat and quiet, that I almost hate to go there."

"You shall hate it no more on that account," said Mrs. Smith, as she wrung her friend's hand. "I now see that Mrs. Jones is the better housekeeper."

Secession in Louisiana—Dick Taylor and Mayor Monroe.

The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Louisiana has addressed a letter under date of January 8, 1867, to Hon. Thomas S. Elliot relative to the condition of affairs in that State, the material portions of which are as follows:

From conversations with secessionists I know they hope that an issue will arise between the President and Congress, or between the United States and some foreign power, which will precipitate war, and through this hoped for war they believe they will rid themselves of the people and the government which are odious to them. They would, to day, join in any movement to rid themselves of the government of the United States, provided there was a fair prospect of success.—Most of the people honestly believe that in the late struggle they were only contending for the right of self-government; that the war carried on against them was iniquitous, and was waged with inhumanity and brutality and that they have been robbed and plundered of their rights and property. With such impressions on their minds they can entertain no loyalty to the government of the United States, nor friendly greetings for the people of the North. There is many an honest man who engaged in the late rebellion believing he was right, but, being now overpowered, would submit to the decision of the sword, were it not for the fact that most of their military leaders now have control and excite these well meaning men. If the United States military forces were to-day removed from Louisiana, and if there was no fear of interference by the United States, these base men, their military leaders, among the most conspicuous of whom is Richard Taylor, who has murdered many citizens of this State, would arouse well meaning citizens to violence and blood, and no Union man, whether white or black, would be safe in his person or his property. So complete are the influence and control of such men as Richard Taylor and Mayor Monroe, who also caused the assassination or so many citizens in New Orleans on the 30th of July, 1866, that the assassin's dagger is retained at the present time only by United States bayonets. The spirit of secession is as strong and defiant as it ever was, because the hope has been revived that it can succeed in maintaining its power in each of the Southern States, and then, when a favorable occasion presents, it can disrupt the Federal Government.

UPON the occasion of the visit of General Sheridan, with General Grant, to the House of Representatives, the other day, they seated themselves near Thad. Stevens. They were hardly seated before autograph albums began to accumulate before them, and even some of the members pressed forward with cards on which to receive their illustrious names. The dozen or more pages of the House finally became so annoying with their albums that the great Generals were compelled to beat a retreat. These autograph hunters are among the most prosistent of nuisances, and it is the duty of public men to summarily and ignominiously snub them.

CHARLES DICKENS shocks the honest country folks about his home at Gadshill by playing croquet with his daughter, for health and recreation, on his lawn on Sunday afternoon.—He must play the dickens with their religious susceptibilities.

The Connellsville R. R. Bill.

The Connellsville Railroad bill, which has recently occupied so much of the public attention, was brought up in the State Senate on Friday last, and defeated by a vote of 13 for and 17 against its passage. A motion to reconsider was then carried, and afterwards the bill was postponed indefinitely, which virtually kills it.

A few words in brief as to the Connellsville road itself, may not be out of place: The Connellsville Railroad company was chartered some years ago by the State Legislature, and for several years afterwards it was the recipient of numerous favors from the same body, in the way of legislative accomodations. In 1864, however, the legislation became adverse to the interests of the company, and during that year their charter was revoked, because of alleged "abuse and misuse" of their privileges. The company then appealed to the Courts for redress, and in a suit tried by a Jury, before whom all the facts were brought, it was decided that the company had not "abused nor misused" their privileges, and that the taking away of their charter by the Legislature was invalid. Knowing, now, that while the question was in this equivocal shape, they could get no capitalists to invest their funds in the completion of the road, the company sought on Friday last to have the act annuling their charter repealed, but with what success we have stated at the head of this article.

The Pennsylvania Central in 1864, no doubt realized, that the Connellsville enterprise completed, would be a rival to their own road. To prevent this, and at its instigation, unfriendly legislation toward the Connellsville road began, and was continued until its charter was swept away. Having accomplished this much, the Pennsylvania Central stands now in the Legislature with the power at hand to prevent a renewal of the charter of the Connellsville company, and likewise to strike down a General Railroad law, or any other measure introduced that would be likely to affect its interests, or stand, even remotely, in its way. That the public may see who voted for the monopoly, and who did not, we herewith append the names of the Senators, and the way they voted on this, the test question. The vote was for the renewal of the Connellsville charter:

YEAS—13.

Bigham, of Allegheny;	Lowry, Erie;
Billingfelt, Lancaster;	Searight, Fayette;
Brown, Lawrence;	Stutzman, Somerset;
Brown, Mercer;	Taylor, Beaver;
Coleman, Dauphin;	Wallace, Clearfield;
Davis, Berks;	White, Indiana.
Graham, Allegheny;

NAYS—17.

The Senate Vote.

As the vote in the State Senate on Friday last, on the Connellsville Railroad bill, indicates the defeat of a General Railroad law this winter, we wish to call attention to a fact or two in conection with it. The Senate, politically, stands, 21 Unionists to 12 Democrats. Three of the former were absent on Friday last. Of the 13 members who voted in favor of the Connellsville bill, and indirectly in favor of a general railroad law, 10 were Unionists and but 3 were Democrats. Of the 17 members who voted against the Connellsville bill, and indirectly against a general railroad law, 9 were Democrats and 8 were Unionists.

To put the question in another form and dispensing with fractions, the Union strength of the senate, is 63 per cent. and that of the Democrats 36.—55 per cent. of the Unionists voted against the Pennsylvania Central monopoly and 45 per cent. in favor of it. 25 per cent. of the democratic strength of the Senate voted against the monopoly and 75 per cent. in favor of it.

These figures need but little comment. They show that the Democrat party, foremost in the hue and cry against the Pennsylvania Rail road company, is the first to give it support when assistance is needed.—The argument that the Unionists are in a majority in the Senate, and therefore responsible for its Legislation has but little force; while it is here shown that if their opponents constituted a majority in that body, the Pennsylvania Central could neither ask for nor wish a more supple tool than that majority would be.

An extensive outbreak is reported in Ireland. The Fenians in that part of the world are on the move, and a collision between them and the British troops is hourly expected. The Fenians are commanded by Col. O'Conner, and have their headquarters near Killarney.

RECONSTRUCTION.

The Day Dawns.

The eastern papers have been jubilant this week on the reconstruction question. They report that the differences heretofore existing between Congress and the President are on the eve of adjustment, and that the latter will consent to, and approve a bill establishing martial law in the ten rebellious States—making the civil courts there subordinate to the military—requiring impartial or universal suffrage and the adoption of the Constitutional Amendments proposed at the last session of Congress. If this be true, then, indeed, light dawns upon us, and but a few weeks more will be required to give the country that security and repose which it so much needs.

P. T. BARNUM, of Connecticut, well known in exhibition circles, was on Thursday last nominated by the Republicans of the Fourth District of that State for Congress. Barnum, although denominated a "humbug," is a man of much respectability, and has withal a good deal of native and acquired ability; and the studious attempt of the copperheads of the country to make this nomination an off-set to Morrissey's election to the same position, is simply absurd. Barnum is a man of unexceptionable habits, always law-abiding, and has served his state for some time past in its Legislature, while Morrisey is a gambler by occupation, a "bruiser" from taste, and without ability or experiense sufficient to enable him to take part in any business brought before the body of which he unfortunately will soon be a member.

Not A Union Paper.

The Erie Dispatch, has for the last month or six weeks been making itself conspicious, and saying some very naughty things of Gov. Geary, General Cameron, and quite a number of other prominent members of the Union party. The copperhead papers of the State have been copying these sayings of the Dispatch quite freely, and always preface them by stating that the Dispatch is the leading Republican paper in North western Pennsylvania. This is not true in whole or in part, and we have the authority of Senator Lowry, of the same town in which the Dispatch is published, for saying that it is not a Union paper at all, and that at the last county convention of the Union party in Erie county, held nearly a year ago, it was unanimously resolved that the Dispatch was not in accord with the Union organization, and that it in no sense reflected the sentiments of the party of that county. This being true, its malignant railings will neither affect the Union party in general, nor injure Governor Geary or General Cameron in particular.—Its political standing at home disarms, and renders it powerless for either good or evil, and if the copperheads of the State are relying upon its influence to assist them in a political way, they will sooner or later realize that they were leaning upon a broken reed.

SHOOTING AFFAIR.—On Monday the 7th inst., says the Lawrence Journal, Samuel Robinson, of Union township, was shot by John Bonnett, of Hickory township. It is stated that Robinson had been getting his washing done at Bennett's and as Bonnett thought become too social with his wife, and determining to stop his visits, he loaded a double barrel shot gun, and when he came toward the house on that morning shot him in the legs. Bennett made a second attempt to shoot but failed, when Robinson retreated some distance, and became exhausted and being unable to proceed further lay in the rain and cold for some time, when Bennett's son informed Mr. Frew's family, at Frow's mill, of the condition of Robinson.—He was cared for by Mr. Frew, at whose residence he received medical aid. His limbs are filled with shot and he is considered in a dangerous condition.

FOX HUNT.—The Fox Hunt, as announced in last week's Argus by R. Walton, Esq., of Industry, came off yesterday, and will be continued today. Quite a number of our cititens joined in the chase on Tuesday, and many others will participate to-day. We have not heard the result of yesterday's hunt, but have no doubt but that quite a number of the "varmints" suffered in the flesh.

As we go to press the arrival of the assassin Surrat is hourly expected in Washington. The United States war Steamer, Swatara was on Monday last hailed in Chesapeake Bay, and by this time has more than likely brought in her bad freight, and handed him over to the civil authorities of the District of Columbia.

Call for a State Temperance Convention.

Intemperance is running away with the nation. It is estimated that sixty thousand die annually, one hundred thousand go to prison, one hundred thousand to the almshouse, five hundred murders and four hundred suicides are committed every year, through this fell appetite for strong drink. What a fearfull record of crime and death! What untold misery, disorder and discord, woe and weeping, attendant upon such a record!

Earth has no ambition that is not ingulphed by it, nor hope that is not blasted; no tie that is not broken; no sanctuary that is not invaded; no friend, kinsman, brother, wife or child that is not forgotten; and no fibre of human agony which is not wrung.—GOD has created no mind that can safely challenge combat with the appetite.

How would he be esteemed a benefactor who would deliver a sinking nation from famine pestilence or the sword? But here is an evil that surpasses either, in the comprehensiveness of its devastations—destroys more lives, produces more misery, consumes more substance, and ruins soul as well as body—an evil that is constantly at work, while they are but occasional visitors; and instead of wearing itself out as they do, or of growing weak with age, this giant of Intemperance but grows the stronger and more active, spreading everywhere in his track, wounds and tears death and perdition.

To suppress such an evil must be the highest philanthropy. If Peter the Hermit was fired with indignation because of the desecrations which the infidel had brought upon Jerusalem, and marshaled and led on a mighty host for the rescue of the Holy Land, shall not we arm for the rescue, because of the desolations wrought by this greatest foe of humanity? Every bone of the mountain, pile of human skeletons around the fountains of King Alcohol call to the living. Arm! Arm! for the rescue!

And to devise measures, for the dethronement of this demon monster, to drive away the destroyer, shut down the flood-gates, and remove from our surviving kindred and fellow-countrymen the sources of temptation, we, the undersigned, hereby call upon all friends of Temperance, throughout the State, to meet in Convention in the Court House, at Harrisburg, on Tuesday, the 26th day of February, 1867, at 2 o'clock, P. M.

John W. Geary, Gov. of Penn'a.
Francis Jordon, Secretary of State

A PLAN to issue to all honorably discharged volunteer soldiers of the war a fitting certificate of their services, has been referred to one of the military committees in Congress.—The current issue of the Army and Navy Journal probably expresses public opinion, in advocating this project:

"Something more significant than the ordinary pitiful paper of muster-out and discharge, signed by the mustering officer, ought to attest the release of our gallant officers of our citizen-soldiery from their patriotic services. Sentiment apart, and as a matter of selfish policy, a government never loses anything by distributing tokens of appreciation of its faithful campaigning among its soldiery — Such has always been the practice in France and other European countries. On this idea rests the whole policy of providing badges and medals of honor, stars, crosses, and insignia of rank. It is not the sign, but the thing signified, to be sure, emblem is what keeps the honorable career which it betokens fresh in the remembrance of others. The honorable ambition, also, to transmit some public memorial of devotion to the country to one's posterity is always to be encouraged."

ROMANTIC EPISODE OF THE WAR.—General Sheridan sent, a few days ago, to Miss Rebecca Wright, of Winchester, Virginia, an elegant gold watch, an exquisitly wrought chain, a brooch, and charms. The brooch is of gold, beautifully wrought into a gauntlet, and set with pearls. One of the charms, as a correspondent informs us, is a sword set with very valuable diamonds. Accompanying this magnificent gift was an autograph letter from General Sheridan, acknowledging Miss Wright's services, which led to the General's success at Winchester, in the battle of the 19th September, 1864. Miss Wright was a young Quakeress, well known for her faith in a united nationality, and understood to be willing to aid the cause at any sacrifice. When General Sheridan was in great doubt how to act he sent a scout to the lady, who, writing upon a slip of paper, which she enclosed in tin-foil, directed the scout to place it in his mouth, that it might escape the enemy's search, and thus furnished the information that enabled the General to achieve his victory.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 16, 1867.

SENATE.

Mr. Wade reported from the Committee on Territories the bill to regulate the selection of Grand and Petit Jurors in Utah, with an amendment in the form of a substitute, being substantially the bill amendatory to the act providing a temporary government for Montana. Mr. Conness introduced a bill authorizing the Postmaster General to invite proposals for a steamship mail service monthly trips, between San Fransisco and Honolulu, to bid exceeding one hundred thousand dollars to be considered. Referred. Mr. Morrill introduced an act amendatory of the act of last session, for the repair, &c., of certain public works, which authorizes the use by the Secretary of war of appropriations there made for other purposes than for examinations and surveys when required by public interest. It passed to a second reading. The credentials of Mr. Ross, Senator from Kansas for Mr. Lane's unexpired term, were presented by Mr. Pomeroy. Mr. Ross, who has up to this time held the office by appointment of the Governor, was sworn in. Mr. Ross presented the credentials of Mr. Pomeroy, Senator elect from Kansas for six years. Ordered filed. All prior orders were postponed, on motion of Mr. Grimes, and the League Island bill considered. After debate, during which a motion by Mr. Wade to postpone and take up the Louisiana bill, was rejected, 17 against 35. Mr. Sumner's amendment, for the appointment of a commission to Select a site, was lost, 15 against 25. Bill passed. The Clerk of the House announced its refusal to recede from its amendment to the tenure of office bill. A Committee of Conference was appointed. Mr. Sherman made an ineffectual effort to get up his compound interest funding bill. The Louisiana bill was taken up, at Mr. Wade's motion, and read a second time. Mr. Trumbull alluded to several amendments necessary to perfect the bill.

HOUSE

Mr. Kasson, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported back Senate amendment to Postoffice Appropriation bill, which was concurred in. On motion of Mr. Schenck, Senate bill to regulate the tenure of certain civil officers was taken from the Speaker's table. The Senate had refused to concur in House amendment making the bill apply to Cabinet officers, and the House insisted on its amendments, and asked a Committee of Conference. On motion of Mr Lawrence, Senate amendments to House bill to define and punish certain crimes therein named, were taken from the Speaker's table and non-concurred in, and a Committee of Conference asked. The Senate joint resolution in reference to Ocean Mail service between San Francisco and Portland, Oregon, was passed. The House took up the bill reported January 15 from the Select Committee on war debts of loyal States to reimburse the States that furnished troops in the Union army for advances made and expenses incurred in raising the same, the question being on a motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was recommitted.—Mr. Delano asked Mr. Blaine what was the aggregate sum it would add to the indebtedness of the Government. Mr. Blaine said the bill provided for the issue of five per cent. bonds not negotiable for twenty years, to the amount of one hundred and fifteen million dollars. After debate, Mr. Wilson moved to table the vote. Lost, 72 against 75. The vote of recommittal was reconsidered, and the bill came before the House. Mr. Blaine withdrew the motion to recommit.—Mr Randall, of Pennsylvania, moved to lay the bill on the table. Yeas 64, nays 87. Mr. Thayer moved to refer the bill to the Committee of Ways and Means. Agreed to, 81 to 44.

PENN'A LEGISLATURE.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 16, 1867.

SENATE.

Mr. Bigham read in place an act for general law to pave McKeesport. Also, a petition from the managers of St. Paul's Orphan Asylum, in relation to soldiers' orphans. The Connellsville Railroad Bill being again before the Senate, Mr. Seawright made an argument in favor of the restoration of the charter. The Clerk read the proceedings of the meeting of the citizens of Pittsburgh relative to this bill. The discussion on the bill occupied both sessions. The friends of the bill wished to adjourn, but the Senate would not agree. Mr. Bigham is still speaking on the bill. A test vote indicates that the bill will not pass.

HOUSE.

The following bills were passed:—Act incorporating the Allegheny and Sawmill Valley Passenger Railway. Act incorporating the Meadville Savings and Loan Association. Act relating to hawking and peddling in Westmoreland county.

PETITIONS.

Mr. McKee—In favor of the passage of a law for inspecting refined and carbon oil. Mr. Wilson—From citizens of McKeesport, for a general paving law for said borough. Also, a remonstrance against the removal of dead bodies in Sewickley. Mr. Chadwick—From the School Directors of Harrison township, to borrow money for school purposes. Mr. Mechling—In favor of the repeal of the Leechburg license law. Mr. Quay—The petition of W. C. Gray for a divorce. Also of citizens of Brighton to divide said borough into three elective districts. Mr. McCamant—A petition from citizens of Blair county, to abolish County Superintendents. Mr. Kimmell—From citizens of Indiana, whether liquor should be sold or not. Mr. Colville offered a resolution that there be a committee of five appointed to inquire whether the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has discriminated in the carrying of freight against the citizens of Pittsburgh.—Adopted.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

Act regulating fees of the Clerk of Courts of Crawford county. Supplement to an act incorporating the borough of Lawrenceville, allowing them to borrow money for building purposes. Mr. Stumbaugh, from the special committee to examine the charges of corruption in the election of United States Senator, reported that they had invited persons having any knowledge of such corruption to appear, and from what testimony they had given there were no grounds for such charges. The following public bills were passed: Act relating to Foreign Insurance Companies. Act to provide for the sale of unsettled lands for non-payment of taxes. To extend the law giving railroad companies one vote per share of stock to bridge companies. Act relating to Agricultural College of Pennsylvania, appropriating interest of money appropriated by the United States. The committee appointed by the meeting in Pittsburgh on Wednesday night for the purpose of advancing the interest of the bill to restore the charter of the Connelsville railroad, waited upon the Governor to-day, who assured them if the bill was passed he would sign it.

The Express War.

From the Chicago Tribune Feb. 9th 1867.

The Merchant's Union Express Company have called in additional assessments amounting to eight per cent on their capital stock, which, with former assessments amounts to a total of twenty-five per cent called for since the organization of the company. By the present assessment the company will realize the sum of twelve hundred thousand dollars; and this is intended to be kept as a fund, in the nature of a guarantee to the bankers and business men of the country that the Merchant's Union Express is a permanent and fixed fact, capable of standing up against all combinations, and of promptly paying all losses.—The organization of this company was a great public benefit; and its failure would be a calamity to the business of the country. The express business had grown up into a powerful and wealthy monopoly. A combination of all the successful companies seemed to defy competition, and various attempts to start opposition companies had failed. The combination seemed to hold the public at their mercy, and they have not been at all backward in making the most of their advantages. Their high charges resulted in the formation of the Merchant's Union Express Company, the most powerful and determined of all the corporations that have attempted to stand up against the old monopolists. Its success has equalled the expectations of its founders and its lines now extend over nearly the whole country. Of course, the old companies have spared no effort to break it down; but in this they have signally failed. It is the duty of the business men of the country to see that they continue to fail.—Should they succeed in breaking down this new organization, it is not probable that this generation would witness another attempt to establish a competing express company, and the old monopolists would immediatly assess upon their customers the cost of the war, to make good their expenditure in breaking down their competitor.

The plan of the Merchant's Union Express is to charge fair and living rates for the transportation of freight neither more nor less. If the other companies carry at less rates they do at a sacrifice, for the sole purpose of breaking this one down. It does not require a very sagacious business man to see that in such a case his interests demand that he should sustain the company that charges the living rates; for he may rest assured that if the other companies should succeed in destroying competitions, they would tax him to make good their sacrifices, and impose heavier burdens than ever on him with impunity.—Of course the old companies are too strong to be broken down by the new one. It is not desirable that they should be. A monopoly in the hands of the Merchant's Union would be, in the end, as bad as any other monopoly. What the public want is fair competition in the express business, and this they will have if the Merchants' Union is sustained during the next twelve months.

EDITOR BEAVER ARGUS: I notice in the Local disparaging remarks in regard to the action of Mr. Quay, in bringing up the bill prohibiting the granting of license for the sale of intoxicating Liquors in our county.—Now, I do not agree with Mr. Quay in many things; but I think that every right minded man ought to favor any measure, intended to abate the cause of intemperance in our county by whomsoever brought forward; I believe the passage of the act proposed would result in great benefit to the people of Beaver county; and should Mr. Quay succeed in having it passed, he will be entitled to the thanks of the friends of christianity and, morality, everywhere, as a public benefactor.—I am acquainted with some licensed houses in our county; and I know they wield an immense influence for evil, blighting the prospects of many of our most promising young men, and bringing untold misery upon innocent families. The man who would not be in favor of suppressing these nurseries, for the preparation of candidates for our Almshouse, or Jails and Penitentiaries, is an enemy to humanity.

A DEMOCRAT.

THE common people of Hanover sent on Bismark's photograph, and mothers in South Germany teach their children to hate him and nurses frighten them to quiet by telling them about the horns he wears on his head and the small boys he has eaten.

PETITIONS.—We notice that, on Thursday last Ce. Quay, of this county, presented the petition of W. C. Gray, for a divorce. Also a petition of citizens of New Brighton to divide that borough into three election districts.

GEN. SHERIDAN.—The General who sent Early whirling up the Shenandoah Valley" was in Pittsburgh on Thursday last, accompanied by a portion of his staff. He was on his way to New Orleans from Washington city, and passed our station on the C. & P. R. R., in the evening of the day referred to above.

U. S. MARSHAL APPOINTED.—The President on Thursday last sent to the Senate the name of Gen. Thos. A. Rowley, of Pittsburgh, for United States Marshal for the western District of Pennsylvania, to fill the place made vacant by the rejection of Samuel M'Kelvey. It is highly probable that Gen. R. will be confirmed by the Senate, and it is also very probable that Mr. Ruple, the newly appointed Assessor for our own District, will likewise fill Senatorial requirements, and "go through."

POSTMASTER APPOINTED.—We learn that Mr. Joseph Davis, of "Seventy-Six," in this county, has been appointed Post-master at that place. Mr. Davis served his country in the army, and it affords us pleasure to hear that his services are, even in this slight degree, rewarded. He will make an accomodating officer, and assumes his duties with the hearty acquiescence of his immediate neighbors.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES IN THE JAIL.—On Sunday last, on receiving an invitation to do so, Rev. S. F. Dravo, preached to the prisoners in the Jail of this place. His remarks were very practical and pertinent, and were listened to with profound attention by all present.

A CORRECTION.—Some three weeks ago a local paragraph appeared in our paper to the effect that a woman, the wife of an artist in Darlington, had died of starvation. We have since learned that this is not true. The lady died of "dilatation" of the heart; and in addition, we learn that the family of which she was a member, was not in want at all, but on the contrary, had an abundance of food in the house at the time of her death. We make this correction in order to heal the wounds our paragraph may have made.

ARRANGEMENT FOR YOUNG COPPOCK.—We see by our exchanges from Salem, Ohio, that the citizens of that vicinity are taking the necessary steps to erect a monument over the remains of Young Ezra Coppock, who was executed with John Brown, at Charlestown, Va. His body was given to his friends at Salem, shortly after his execution, and for six years, it has lain in the Cemetery of that village, without a stone to mark the place. The intention now is to raise a beautiful monument over his grave.

PRESBYTERIAL CONVENTION.—A Presbyterian Centennial Convention was held last week in Pittsburgh. Quite a large number of Presbyteries were represented in the Convention, and the proceedings throughout, were of the most interesting character. From the minutes of the meeting we gather the following in relation to the Presbytery of Beaver:

The Presbytery of Beaver was organized in the year 1808 and comprised five ministers. The present number of ministers in the Presbytery is 15; licentiates, 2; candidates, 6; number of churches, 16; communicants added last year on examination, 157; communicants added on certificates, 102; total number of communicants, 2,570; children in Sabbath schools and Bible classes, 1,660.

RISE IN THE RIVER.—On Friday last we had quite a rise in the waters here, and for a time it was supposed that some of our neighboring villages would be partly submerged. Fortunately, however, the water did not rise high enough to damage buildings; but judging from the amount of rails, &c., floating down the Beaver, we take it that fences suffered severely up toward the head of that stream.

The rise was occasioned by rains up north and east, which caused the ice in the Allegheny and smaller streams to "break loose" and make for a more Southern locality. On Saturday morning the ice had about all passed down, and the water in the river soon after began to have a "downward tendency."

"SWINDLERS."—"Prof" Overington, and his swindling operations in Rochester and vicinity, some two weeks ago, fill quite a large space in the Local of last week. But why does the editor of that paper go over to Rochester to expose swindlers, and allow one that are nearer his home to go "scot free?" Since, a man swindled a livery stable here last week out of $34, and the ... has never given his name to the public, nor even mentioned the circumstance to its readers! And then, too, a few Beaver "sharps" undertook but a short time ago to swindle a whole organization in Bridgewater, and not a word of this transaction does the public get to see through the columns of the Local. Its editor is said to be in possession of not only the particulars but the names also, of the parties to both of these transactions; and if he has any punctilious scruples or fears in reference to their publication, we beg him to send them down here. We will give them an airing, and charge nothing for our trouble.

A BELLIGERENT WOULD-BE BEAU.—A short time ago information was made before Esq. Morlan, of New Brighton, charging a certain Jug Hayden with disturbing the congregation of the M. E. Church of that place, on the preceding Sunday evening. The particulars were about as follows: While the congregation were dispersing, Jug was seized with the "tender" passion, and aspired to the honor of escorting a damsel to her home. This honor she declined, and accepted the company of another. This so aroused Jug's ire, as to induce him to make some belligerent demonstrations toward his fortunate rival. Some time after this, Jug's curiosity led him to the Justice's office, to see what was to be seen there, and to his consternation he was shown by Constable Darling a warrant for his arrest. He admitted the belligerent part of the charge, but insisted that there was no girl in the case. The Justice imposed a fine of $5 on him for disturbing the meeting, which the accused thought was rather "steep" for so small a matter as proposing to "develope;" but rather than there should be a Jug within a Jug, he liquidated the account, and left, we presume, with no favorable opinion of the law.

THE LENNOX MURDER CASE.—The Lennox murder case took a new turn last week. The Legislature, some two weeks ago, passed an act repealing the act of last winter which changed the venue in the Lennox murder case from Washington county to Beaver. A certified copy of the repealing act approved by the Governor, reached here on Wednesday last, and on the Thursday morning following, Lennox, under a proper guard, was taken back to his own county, there to be put upon trial for murder committed in 1864.

The public costs in the case since he was brought to this county will reach well nigh to fifteen hundred dollars, all of which must be paid by Washington county. Our county, generally, may congratulate itself on being relieved of this troublesome case; and it is to be hoped that the authorities in Washington county, having the prisoner and papers all at hand, will now proceed to give him a trial at once. If innocent, he has been in prison too long already; and, if guilty, he should be made to understand what public justice is, and suffer for his misdeed without another month's delay.

BROUGHT TO JAIL.—On last Saturday night at about midnight, a man named King, of rather unfavorable fame in the vicinity of New Brighton, was brought to the Jail in this place. King, for some charge that was brought against him a while ago, was at large on bail, and not relishing the idea of a trial, made himself scarce for some time past, evidently with the intention of leaving his security in the "lurch." He, however made a clandestine visit to a friend of his in New Brighton last week, and his sureties having ascertained this caused his arrest and as before remarked brought him to jail on Saturday night with a view of giving him a trial at the bar, whether agreeable or otherwise, to him personally.
